

Chien-Ming Wang Headlines That Less Mature Sports Feature Editors Could Try to Run a Few Months From Now

by Baron von Funny

Washington Nationals pitcher Chien-Ming Wang made headlines this week for admitting to an extramarital affair. Wang apologized to his wife and family, as well as his fans, and asked for forgiveness. As part of the typical news cycle for these matters, we can probably expect a slew of follow-up feature stories down the road, and while his last name is pronounced "Wong," that may not stop some members of the media from having a little fun with the more common pronunciation...
