

Other Questionable Claims Made By Brian Williams Over the Years

by Baron von Funny

This week, NBC Nightly News anchor Brian Williams was suspended without pay for six months after it was revealed that he had fabricated stories about being in a military helicopter that was shot down in Iraq in 2003, and that he witnessed a man commit suicide by jumping off of a building during coverage of Hurricane Katrina in 2005. But these are not the only times Williams has stretched the truth...
